

Brown used marks on hollow-point bullet fragments found in Shields to confirm Bressler's wife's gun fired the fatal shots.

Bressler's defense attorneys have stated two men with him that night are the actual killers.

Bruce Bastien and Kenneth Eastridge have already pleaded guilty, been sentenced, and are set to testify against Bressler this week.

Also Monday, a Colorado Bureau of Investigation DNA analyst testified that Bastien's blood was found on the front of Shields' pants.

The men served in the same platoon with Shields when their Fort Carson unit fought in Iraq.

Bressler has also been charged with first-degree murder in the August 2007 shooting death of Fort Carson Pfc. Robert James.

The trial continues Wednesday, as the Terry R. Harris Judicial Complex is closed today for Veterans Day.